

Anchorage March for Parks

Saturday, April 12th, 9am to 12pm

Have friends and family pledge, “march for parks” and visit an Alaska park!

You and your class can earn:

Individual Prizes

Earn $20, receive a March for Parks water bottle.
Earn $40, receive a March for Parks water bottle & t-shirt.

$100 Class Level

Enjoy a visit by an Alaska Zoo ambassador animal to your classroom, or a bird visit by Bird TLC!

$200 Class Level

Embark on a 3-hour field trip (bus transportation only) to the Alaska Public Lands Information Center!

$250 Class Level

Earn bus transportation (4 hours) to the Eagle River Nature Center (2-hour program cost not included).

$350 Class Level

Immerse yourself in a 90-minute classroom visit from North American Outdoor Institute for an interactive lesson on outdoor preparedness and survival skills!

$400 Class Level

Delight in a Self-Guided Safari at the Alaska Zoo with pre- and post-trip materials provided (bus transportation, student and chaperon admission included)!

$500 Class Level

Discover the Alaska Zoo like never before with a behind-scenes guided tour (bus transportation, student and chaperon admission included)!

Event Activities Include:

*Activity Booths

*Prizes

*Fun & More!

1. Ask family and friends to pledge to your walk and help your class earn a field trip.
2. Register at the Alaska Public Lands and Information Center (APLIC) to begin your walk.
3. The walking route begins and ends at APLIC on 4th and F street. From APLIC, the walk includes part of the Tony Knowles Coastal Trail, Elderberry Park and the Anderson House.

For more information contact Helen Fields, Education Specialist with Alaska Public Lands Information Center, at Helen\_m\_fields@nps.gov or (907)644-3670.

Anchorage March for Parks

Saturday, April 12th, 9am to 12pm

March for Parks is the nation's largest walking event for parks organized for and by people who enjoy the outdoors. Anchorage Alaska Public Lands Information Center, Anchorage Zoo, Eagle River Nature Center, Volunteers of America, Boys and Girls Clubs of Anchorage, Alaska Geographic, and North American Outdoor Institute are all partnering to help raise funds for student fieldtrips to nearby outdoor education centers. March for Parks encourages youth and community members to raise money and complete the walk which will end at the Alaska Public Lands Information Center where booths and activities will be set up to celebrate Earth Day. Hundreds of people are expected to attend this event.

We are kindly requesting donations for March for Parks in the form of cash, products, services, passes or gift certificates. These donations will go directly to the event as prizes for participating students. Your thoughtful donations will be recognized throughout the event.

Thank you for your kind support and for making Anchorage's first annual March for Parks a successful event!

For more information contact Helen Fields, Education Specialist with Alaska Public Lands Information Center, at Helen\_m\_fields@nps.gov or (907)644-3670.

